What Does ChatGPT's Agentic Pivot Mean for the Ecosystem?

1) It addresses need for better selection and consumer-preferred link-out to drive adoption 2) Monitoring adoption and AMZN's role key from here 3) Speaks to GOOGL's moats/edge to drive agentic change 4) Underscores vertical-specific agentic opportunity 5) Could be a tailwind to retailer/OTA profit.

5 Implications of ChatGPT's Agentic Strategic Pivot: ChatGPT's recent pivot in its early agentic shopping efforts away from direct check-out towards link-out and directing traffic toward retailer/supplier apps (Walmart, Target, Booking.com, Instacart, etc.) is notable as we continue to analyze early commercial agentic adoption across the LLM-based tools. We detail 5 big picture read-throughs and our latest Alphawise agentic adoption data...which in many ways reinforce the need for this change.

1) Why the Change? Commercial Agentic Adoption Doesn't Appear to Be Growing, and the ChatGPT Shopping Experience Needed to Improve: Our latest recurring survey work shows that ~55% of ChatGPT users are engaging in price comparison/product research and 40% are purchasing products...but neither of those stats have grown meaningfully in the past 5 months. Changing millions of consumers' behavior is challenging and requires differentiated offerings with incremental utility. In the world of online shopping, that means scaled and curated inventory, ample diverse reviews, shipping and pricing options, etc. In our view, ChatGPT's early agentic shopping efforts (so far) are behind GOOGL and paid search (and its 50bn SKU real-time shopping graph, improving algorithms leveraging more data, etc) in multiple of these key areas.

Exhibit 1: Early agentic commercial behaviors are largely stable and not growing (~40-55% of users are researching products and/or price comparing)...

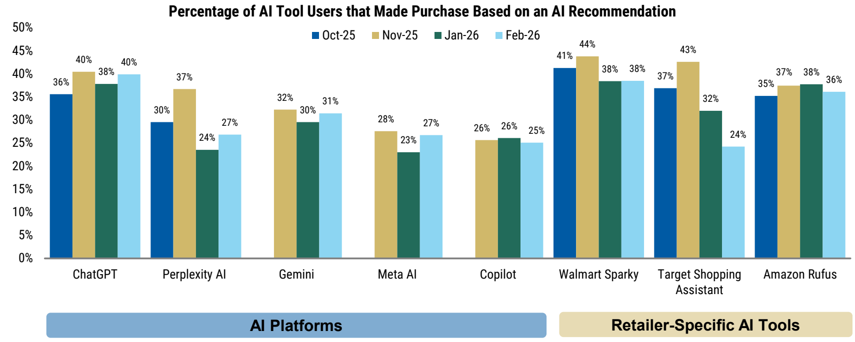
Exhibit 2: ...with ~20-40% of Monthly AI Tool Users Report Making a Purchase Through Them...



Source: AlphaWise, Morgan Stanley Research

To us, Exhibit 3 is also telling as 34% of people not using agentic shopping say they are not doing it because they prefer to visit the retailers' site (in effect the paid search model). This could well be linked to the "trust factor"...with 36% of people saying they don't trust the AI recommendations for shopping. Bottom line, we believe a change in strategy to provide/surface more inventory and retailer-specific information and interface was needed to drive commercial adoption.

2) Expect ChatGPT Shopping to Improve as Monitoring Adoption Remains Key...and Watch Amazon: To be clear, we expect ChatGPT's shopping experience to improve from this pivot. As such, our recurring survey work and industry conversations will remain important to assessing whether ChatGPT is gaining commercial traction. The opportunity remains large, with ChatGPT, we believe, still capturing single digit percentage commissions on e-commerce transactions. Driving more transaction volume is also critical to scaling a performance-based ad business (as ChatGPT is building).

We also think this change in strategy (and pivot to be more search-like with link-out) further increases the chances that Amazon could become a (much needed) partner in ChatGPT's agentic offering (see here for why this matters for Amazon).

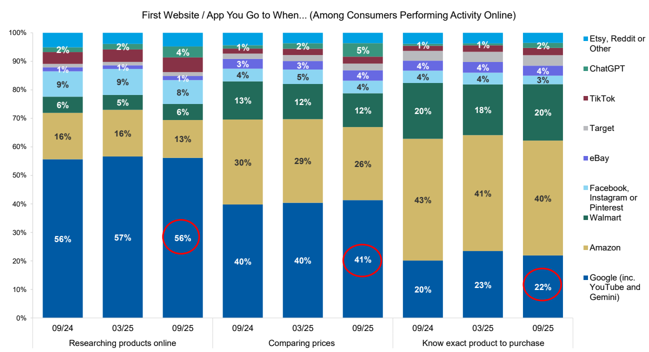
3) This Showcases The Moats Around Google Search, With Google Now Controlling The Pace of Fully Agentic E-commerce Advances: Our survey data continue to show that online shopping behavior (across e-commerce, travel, financials, autos, etc) starts on Google and Search. That behavior isn't changing….and GOOGL's products are also improving (see here). This, in our view, will make them more difficult to disrupt.

Exhibit 4: Within e-commerce, GOOGL retains its leading spot at the top and middle of the funnel (still notably larger than Amazon). ChatGPT's position remains relatively small.



Source: AlphaWise, Morgan Stanley Research

And while ChatGPT is pivoting its agentic strategy to be more "search-like" to drive adoption, GOOGL is pressing on with its on-platform agentic payment tools and APIs like Agentic Payments Protocol (see here for full write-up). Over the long-run, these tools can give GOOGL an advantage within agentic commerce if behavior moves in that direction. But with the lack of a material fully agentic competitive threat (as we previously thought ChatGPT was going to push this year) we expect GOOGL to roll-out and expand these agentic tools in a test/learn and controlled manner...enabling them to preserve their search position and leading unit economics while also driving innovation and behavior change.

4) Vertical Specific Agents Likely to Showcase Value Before Horizontal Agents: These changes reinforce our views that vertical-specific agents are likely to see adoption and drive incremental volume/value ahead of broader horizontal agents as detailed in Internet: 10 Debates to Shape the Sector and Key Picks in '26 (12 Jan 2026)

Consider that in coming weeks we expect Walmart's 'Sparky' to be embedded within ChatGPT, converting the interaction into an agent (OpenAI)-to-agent (Walmart) transaction (as written about here). We expect more of these horizontal to vertical agentic handoffs...and big picture expect vertical specific agents (Walmart's Sparky, Amazon's Rufus, Booking.com's Penny, Expedia's Romie, Instacart's agentic shopper, etc) and their ability to leverage vertical, domain and platform-specific data sets to drive utility and adoption. Amazon's Rufus is already driving almost 200bp of growth to GMV (as one example) and we expect more of these data points ahead...with the market likely rewarding platforms that are seeing incremental volume from GenAI as AI winners and beneficiaries.

5) As Retailers and Suppliers (Including OTAs) Could Be Winners if ChatGPT Shopping Gains Traction: Vertical-specific agents could drive more value and the changes by ChatGPT reinforce our bullish views on BKNG (see here), AMZN, DASH, WMT, and EBAY which have multiple 'I's in our agentic framework that give them leverage over horizontal agents' ability to create differentiated, scalable offerings. This may also temper bear fears for companies where perceived disintermediation risk was higher (such as ETSY), shifting the focus more to incremental traffic generated.

But there is an even more significant benefit to suppliers to monitor because we believe ChatGPT's current single digit percentage commission rates are substantially lower than the "effective paid search take rates." We believe the OTAs are not paying any commission as now. While we acknowledge the rates may change over time as this strategic change is rolled out, the current structure does create an opportunity for downstream partners (retailers, OTAs, etc) to realize benefits of lower customer acquisition cost the extent to which ChatGPT's new commerce offering gains traction at the expense of paid search.

Exhibit 5: We believe current "effective search take rates" are 5-10x higher than early agentic commission offerings from ChatGPT

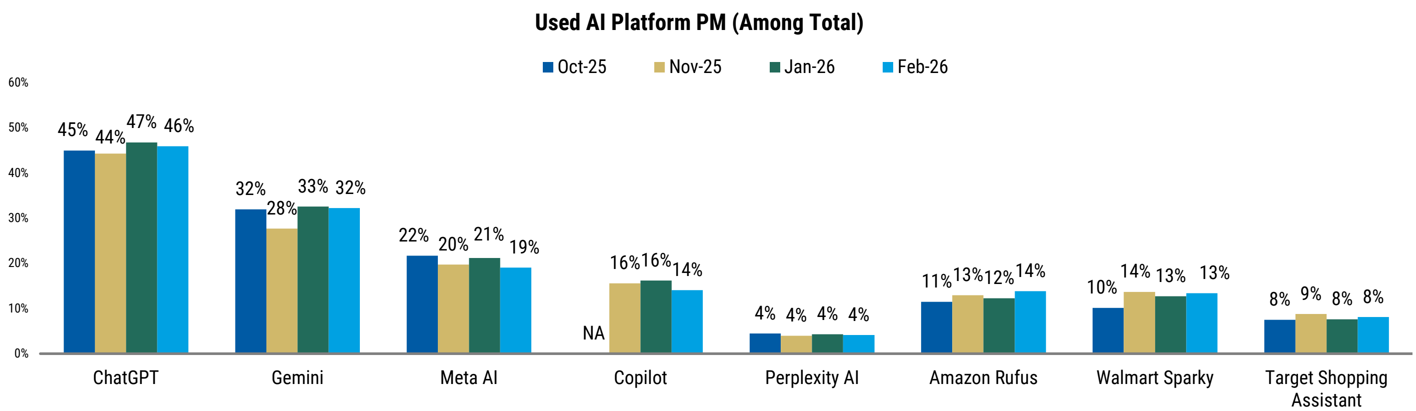
AlphaWise Agentic Survey Update

We now turn to our latest recurring AlphaWise survey tracker of consumer behavior and agentic commerce adoption, with three key takeaways that generally highlight the need for innovation to drive further adoption:

1) ChatGPT and Gemini Overall Adoption Continues to Inch Toward 50% of Americans... 46%/32% of US respondents reported using ChatGPT/Gemini in the past month, only slightly higher than 45%/32% in October. This relatively slow incremental adoption of late speaks to the importance for the products to evolve and improve and provide new sources of consumer utility. It is also a reminder of the strength and durability of the existing leading consumer platforms like Google Search, Facebook and Instagram...which are all seeing strong engagement growth off of much larger user/time spent bases from improved machine learning and tool roll out...which will therefore make them harder to disrupt.

Retailer-specific AI assistant adoption (Walmart Sparky, Amazon Rufus, and Target Shopping Assistant) is also relatively stable. AMZN has sized the contribution from Rufus (adding 140bps to GMV growth in 4Q)...and further adoption and innovation on these tools still has the potential to drive higher spend/attach from their (likely) power users/ early adopters. We think this could become more pronounced in coming months given the recent agentic changes by ChatGPT (discussed in more detail below)

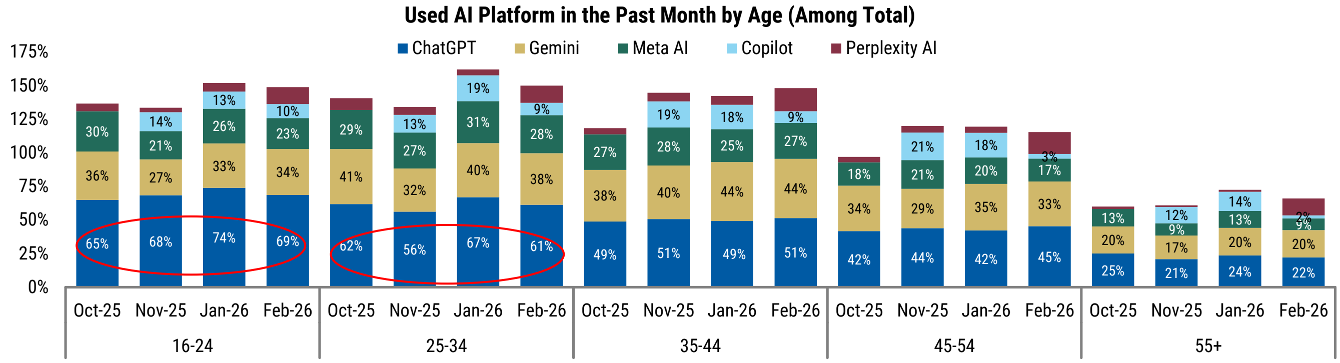
Exhibit 6: ChatGPT/Gemini continue to lead in overall adoption with 46%/32% of respondents citing usage in the past month...up slightly from 45%/32% in October.



Source: AlphaWise, Morgan Stanley Research

...With ChatGPT Still Showing Strong Adoption in Younger Cohorts: In February, ~60-70% of people aged 16-34 used ChatGPT, somewhat of a downtick from January to monitor, though still well ahead of Gemini and others. Gemini adoption remains in the ~35-45% range of people aged 16-44 and is relatively stable. ChatGPT's younger cohort adoption edge speaks to its multi-year "aging up" opportunity and the importance for GOOGL to continue to ship products to bridge the gap in younger cohorts (we see YouTube as a potential distribution advantage here).

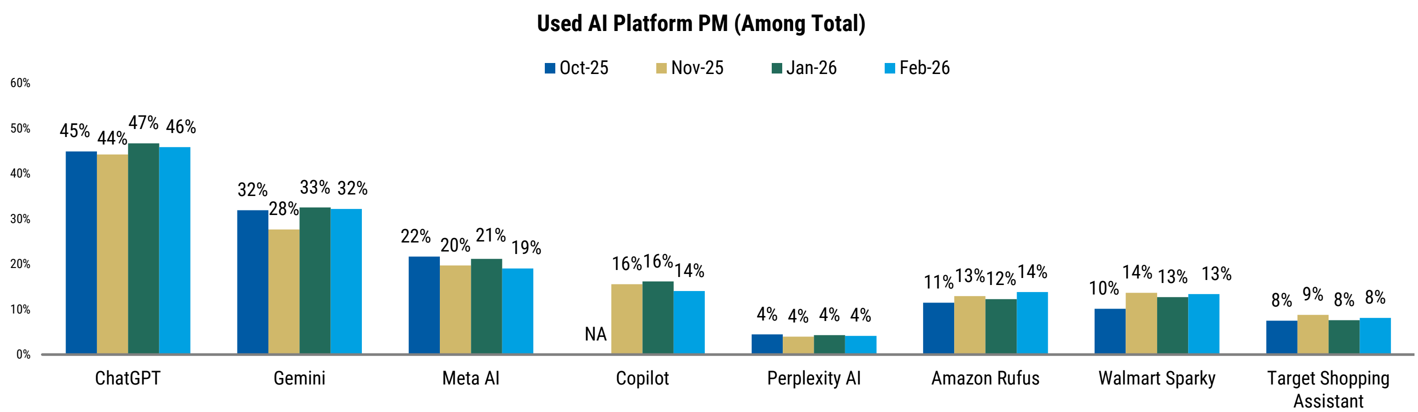
Exhibit 7: ChatGPT is still leading in early adoption across the age groups...with its advantage among younger cohorts notable. This speaks both to ChatGPT's opportunity and the importance of GOOGL continuing to ship new products.



Source: AlphaWise, Morgan Stanley Research

2) Commercial Behavior Signals Also Largely Stable, with ~40-55% of AI Users Researching Products/Price Comparing... ~54%/44% of ChatGPT/Gemini users now report researching products/comparing prices for products on each platform in February. Similarly, ~50% of Walmart Sparky and Amazon Rufus users are engaging in product research/comparing prices, while Target's agentic commercial behavior dropped off which we will monitor.

Exhibit 8: Early commercial trends are also largely stable (~40-55% of users are researching products and/or price comparing).



Source: AlphaWise, Morgan Stanley Research

...And ~20-40% of Agentic Users Making Purchases...Which Speaks to the Opportunity and Need for Improvements to Drive Broader Purchase Behavior. ChatGPT and Gemini continue to see good early signal with 40%/31% of users making purchases on the platforms in February, both up modestly from February. But stepping back, and adjusting for the 47%/33% broader tool adoption, these data still imply only ~18%/10% of Americans made a purchase through each platform in February. This in our view speaks to the need for product innovation and changes ChatGPT is making (detailed above).

Notably retailer-specific agentic purchase behavior rates are at or above that of the broader platforms...speaking to the opportunity for Sparky/Rufus/Target to drive potential incremental growth/share gains if they can drive agentic adoption. For more on our view on why retailer-specific agents may drive upside faster than broader-based platform agents please see Internet: 10 Debates to Shape the Sector and Key Picks in '26.

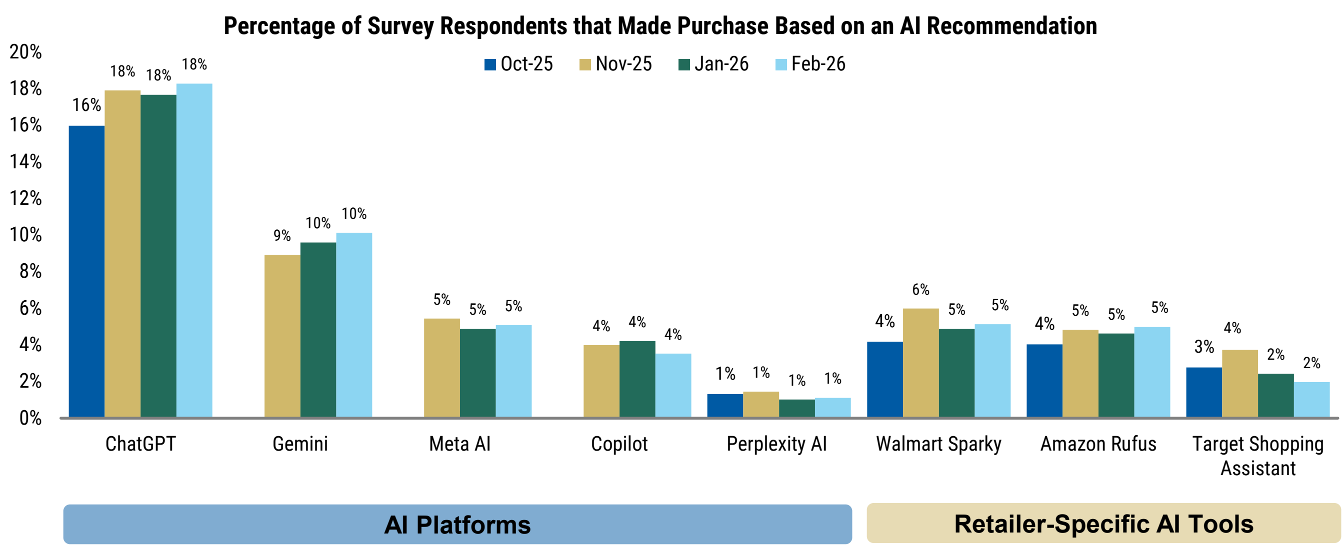
Source: AlphaWise, Morgan Stanley Research

Exhibit 10: ...which implies ~18% of Americans have made AI driven purchases on ChatGPT and 10% have purchased through Gemini. Retailer specific penetration is lower only because of smaller user bases.



Source: AlphaWise, Morgan Stanley Research

3) AI Trust Question Marks and Preference to Look Directly on Retailers' Websites Among Top Reasons People are Not Using Agentic Shopping Tools: Our survey data find that, for consumers not using AI tools to shop, they have (1) a preference for in-store exploration (2) a lack of trust in AI recommendations and (3) a preference to shop or look for products directly on retailer websites. Leaving the "offline preference" aside (as we expect e-commerce to continue to grow), the other two factors are notable and further reinforce 1) why ChatGPT may have made the change to link-out and 2) Google Search's moats and defensibility.

Exhibit 11: ~34% of people who are not using AI tools for shopping say they prefer to visit retailers' sites/apps...and 36% don't trust the AI recommendations.

BULL CASE $415.00

Implied ~16X '27 bull case EBITDA.

Faster innovation and Search/GCP acceleration lead to multiple expansion and higher earnings power. Search revenue accelerates as AI-driven innovation delivers meaningful upside to engagement. New AI offerings prove incremental to the top and bottom line and don't cannibalize core Search. YouTube and Cloud become even bigger contributors to top-line growth, and operate at a higher margin than in our base case.

BASE CASE $330.00

Implied ~14X '27 base case EBITDA.

Assumes pragmatic search revenue growth in '26, continued incremental platform monetization and Google Cloud acceleration in '26. As GOOGL continues platform-level innovation on Search and other categories, we assume pragmatic revenue/EBITDA growth. GOOGL introduces new AI offerings which increase confidence in the durability of long term growth and calm fears around competition. Google Cloud accelerates driven by new partnerships and growing backlog.

BEAR CASE $200.00

Implied ~8X '27 bear case EBITDA.

Global ad growth slows further and margins face pressure. Assumes slower search advertising growth, and that ad spending slows further. Expense discipline fails to materialize leading to lower than expected margin expansion and adj. EBITDA. New AI products create greater than expected margin pressure due to lower monetization rates and increased compute intensity.

BULL CASE $1,100.00

AI investments drive increased engagement and lead to new products/tools, which supports outsized ad monetization and revenue growth. Execution on newer offerings (like click to message) could also contribute to higher than expected growth. META could also drive further efficiency gains and be more successful in closing the Reels monetization gap. Reality Labs losses moderate and macro environment is better than expected.

BASE CASE $825.00

Ad revenue grows ~29.5% in '26 as META's AI investments drive incremental Reels engagement/monetization and support improved performance and ad measurement/attribution across the Family of Apps. We also see META continuing to focus on efficiency and improving productivity.

BEAR CASE $500.00

Declines in engagement and/or evidence of Reels monetization ramping more slowly than expected could lead to lower growth and greater uncertainty. We also watch for any macro uncertainty, regulation that limits META's ability to target ads, Reality Labs losses widen more materially than expected, and higher capital intensity from mis-execution around the data center build. Any additional opex and capex could weigh on operating income growth and FCF.

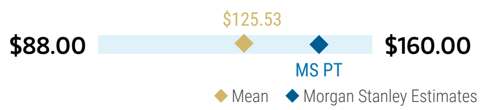
Risk Reward – Target Corp (TGT.N)

Undemanding Valuation While Effecting Turnaround

PRICE TARGET $145.00

Our $145 PT is based on ~17.6x our '27e EPS of $8.25. This multiple is aligned with TGT's long-term historical P/E multiple of 18x, which we believe is warranted to reflect the stabilizing profitability and optionality on improving top line if the upcoming turnaround plan proves successful. We think top-line growth could stabilize in '26e, and EBIT margins could approach the ~5% range by '27 due to idiosyncratic margin drivers and cost actions.

Consensus Price Target Distribution



Source: Refinitiv, Morgan Stanley Research

OVERWEIGHT THESIS

- We see a positive risk/reward skew based on undemanding valuation, turnaround initiatives & potential for a near-term fade of reputational issues, with some potential for margin/earnings recapture in 26e/'27e.
- Multiple may re-rate higher following a top-line inflection, as it did in 2019.
- TGT has established itself as a survivor/beneficiary in Retail and deserves a multiple in between its long-term average and the market multiple.

BULL CASE $169.00

~17.0x 2027e EPS of $9.91

We model +3.0%/+4.0% comps in '26e/'27e as TGT recovers from current reputational issues near term, and recaptures lost market share in '26e/'27e. We model +73bps of EBIT margin expansion in '26e, followed by +30bps of expansion in '27e, to 5.3%/5.6%. This translates to EPS of $8.88/$9.91 in '26e/'27e.

BASE CASE $145.00

~17.6x 2027e EPS of $8.25

We model +1.2%/+2.0% comps in '26e/'27e as TGT recovers from reputational issues near term, with a normalizing comp algo resuming in '27e. We model +20bps of EBIT margin expansion in '26e, followed by a further 10bp of expansion in '27e, yielding 4.8%/4.9% in each of '26e/'27e. This translates to EPS of $7.82/$8.25 in '25e/'26e.

BEAR CASE $85.00

~16.7x 2027e EPS of $5.09

We model -0.8%/0.0% comps in '26e/'27e as TGT operates under reputational issues near term, and structural competition from mega-cap, multi-category peers weighs on '26e/'27e. We model -110bps of EBIT margin erosion in '26e, followed by -10bps in '26e/'27e, yielding EBIT margin of 3.5%/3.4% in '26e/'27e. This translates to EPS of $5.37/$5.09 in '26e/'27e.

STOCK RATINGS

Morgan Stanley uses a relative rating system using terms such as Overweight, Equal-weight, Not-Rated or Underweight (see definitions below). Morgan Stanley does not assign ratings of Buy, Hold or Sell to the stocks we cover. Overweight, Equal-weight, Not-Rated and Underweight are not the equivalent of buy, hold and sell. Investors should carefully read the definitions of all ratings used in Morgan Stanley Research. In addition, since Morgan Stanley Research contains more complete information concerning the analyst's views, investors should carefully read Morgan Stanley Research, in its entirety, and not infer the contents from the rating alone. In any case, ratings (or research) should not be used or relied upon as investment advice. An investor's decision to buy or sell a stock should depend on individual circumstances (such as the investor's existing holdings) and other considerations.

Global Stock Ratings Distribution

(as of February 28, 2026)

The Stock Ratings described below apply to Morgan Stanley's Fundamental Equity Research and do not apply to Debt Research produced by the Firm.

For disclosure purposes only (in accordance with FINRA requirements), we include the category headings of Buy, Hold, and Sell alongside our ratings of Overweight, Equal-weight, Not-Rated and Underweight. Morgan Stanley does not assign ratings of Buy, Hold or Sell to the stocks we cover. Overweight, Equal-weight, Not-Rated and Underweight are not the equivalent of buy, hold, and sell but represent recommended relative weightings (see definitions below). To satisfy regulatory requirements, we correspond Overweight, our most positive stock rating, with a buy recommendation; we correspond Equal-weight and Not-Rated to hold and Underweight to sell recommendations, respectively.
